Haunted by Fairies.

"It is surprising," said Police Supt. Campbell, of Brooklyn, "how many men there are in active life who, while successful in their own business, and apparently sound in general, have some vagary which, when uppermost in their conversation, raises a serious doubt about their mental condition. I have a number of such visitors, and I have been in the habit of sending them to the Commissioners of Charities, but recently they sent me word that if they should undertake to care for cranks it would take an asylum ten times as big as they have got. An intelligent man of polite address called upon me some months ago, and said that he had a complaint to make which he had put off speaking about as long as possible, but he was annoyed almost to death, and wanted police help. 'State your case,' I said. 'Well, there is an extension to my house, and the roof is just off my sleeping room. Now, every night a big crowd of fairies congregate there, and make every sort of mischief.'

"What?" said I.

"Fai-ies," he said: "faries."

"Oh," I said, "I never saw one." He seemed surprised, and when I asked him to describe them he said they were little people of both sexes, about two or three feet tall, dressed in fantastic costumes and with fanny faces.

"What do they do?" I asked.

"Oh, they caw and dance and play, and run to the window and make faces at me, and run away again. They keep it up all the night and I can't get any sleep, and I'm not going to stand it any longer. It's been going on now for months, and it is injuring my health." Seeing that the man was in earnest, and that the best way to take him was the most serious way, I said: "This is an outrage, and must be stopped. That's what I'm here for, and the fairies must get out or I will, depend on that. Now, I'll investigate this matter, and you won't be troubled again. You go to bed to-night and go to sleep, and you'll hear no more of the fairies." Three months passed, and the man and his story had almost passed out of my mind, when one day he came into my office, saying, "Here I am again!"

"What's the matter now?" I asked.

"Fairies," said he, "the same old fairies."

"Why," I said, "I thought we had broken up that gang of fairies."

"Well," he said, "after you drove them off, I didn't see or hear anything more of them until last night, when they came back again. Now I must ask you to attend to them again."

"I promised him that I would, and he went away thanking me, and as I haven't heard from him since I suppose that I have banished the spirits as successfully as before."

"A few days ago a gentleman who is well known in business in New York, and lives in the vicinity of the Heights, called upon me and complained that he was intensely annoyed by boys following him about, crying "Cat! cat! cat!" Every morning as he passed from his house to the ferry, he was pursued by boys uttering these cries; that they followed him on the ferry-boat with their noises and to his place of business. He only escaped them when he went inside to work. When he came out at noon they began to annoy him again with the cries, and as soon as he stepped out from the restaurant where he took his lunch, the cry of "Cat! cat! cat!" again rang in his ears. He could not get in a stage, or cross the street, or step out of doors but that the cries of "Cat! cat! cat!" would reach his ears.

"Why do you suppose won are so annoyed?" I asked. "On," he said, "I suppose it is because I believe in feeding all the cats that come to my place, and whenever I see a cat I want to feed it. I suppose when a cat's hungry I've got to feed it, haven't I?"

"Certainly," I said, "but can you describe those who annoy you?"

"Now that's the worst of it," he said. "I have never seen them. Pshaw! if I could see them I wouldn't ask help of anybody. I would redress my wrongs myself. But these cries seem to come from invisible persons, right out of the air."

"I called in the captain of the police precinct where my visitor lived, told him the story, and gave him instructions to put a stop to this outrage, and that is the last I heard of the man haunted with the cries of 'Cat! cat! cat!'" — N. Y. Sun.

King Henry's Arm and Edward's Barleycorn.

There is little difficulty now about fixing the standard, but in early times, when science had not attained its present exactness, there were constant bickerings and wrangles. Perhaps the first successful attempt to obtain uniformity was achieved by Henry I., who settled the matter by a decision curiously arbitrary and final. The yard was to be the standard of every measure, and the length of the yard was not a matter of feet or inches but was laid down once for all as the length of the King's arm. The decision was apparently simple, and intended to be final. The King often settled in person matters of dispute between his subjects, and in differences as to questions of measurement there could always be a ready reference to the royal arm. Somehow it did not seem to occur to Henry I. that one of his arms might be longer than another, or that if he practiced archery or otherwise developed the muscles of his upper limbs the standard might be fluctuating. Moreover, it did not at all follow that his son would have an equally long arm, and, if the heir to the throne were a princess, elements of great confusion were introduced in what was intended to be final.

In Edward II.'s time a new criterion was hit upon. The standard was settled by statute which ordained that "three barleycorns sound and dry should make an inch." As compared with measurement by the royal arm this standard was almost democratic in its suggestion, but the barleycorn showed unmistakably the predominance of the agricultural interest. The inch being thus ascertained, it was easy to construct from that datum the foot, yard, perch, and even the acre. The barleycorn, indeed, figures constantly in attempts to arrive at the methods of computation. The object, however, seems to have been to get a standard that was accessible rather than one that was invariable. The authorities realized that seeds plucked from the full ear were more popular as a reference than the proportions of the royal arm. What was done with the inch had already been done with the ounce. The consent of the whole realm was obtained to the proposal put forward in the fifty-first year of Henry III., that twenty pennies should make an ounce, and that one penny should weigh thirty-two wheat-corns taken from the midst of the ear of corn. And so matters stood for many years. — London Globe.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

SATURDAY EVENING, NOV. 25, 1882.

TERMS.—The EVENING BULLETIN is published daily, and served free of postage at 6 cents per week; 25 cents per month; 75 cents per three months; $1.50 per six months, and $3 per year, payable in advance.

THE EVENING BULLETIN HAS A LARGER CIRCULATION IN THIS CITY, CHESTER AND ABERDEEN, OHIO, THAN ANY OTHER PAPER PUBLISHED IN MAYSVILLE.

Our Agents.

The following persons are the authorized agents for the DAILY BULLETIN at the places named. Contracts for subscription or advertising may be made with them:

GERMANTOWN—T. J. Kackley & Co.
WASHINGTON—Mrs. Anna Thomas.
MAYSVILLE—J. A. Jackson.
MT. OLIVET—Peter Myers.
SARDIS—P. W. Sut.

FERN LEAF—Harry Bourgoine.
MINERVA—W. H. Hawes.
SHANNON—Win. Clary.

THE corn crop of Tennessee this season, is said to be largest ever grown in that state.

300,000,000 pounds, valued at $100,000,000, is the estimate of the total wool clip of the United States for the year 1882.

THE manufacturing industries of this country are becoming more valuable every year. The value of silk production in ten years rose from $12,210,662, to $34,310,463.

“THE Governor’s Light Artillery” has been organized at Frankfort and mustered into the state guard. The company will doubtless do duty at Grayson next February.

REPRESENTATIVE Orth, of Indiana, is quite sick, and his colleague, Representative Brown, does not think he will ever again be able to perform his duties as a Representative in Congress.

GEO. B. LORING, Commissioner of Agriculture, submitted his annual report to the president. The statistical division estimates the following as the yield of 1881: Corn, 1,635,000,000 bushels; wheat, 410,000,000; oats, 470,000,000; barley, 45,000,000; rye, 20,000,000; buckwheat, 12,000,000.

NOWITHSTANDING the backwardness of the seasons this year, winter seems to be on time. Snows have been reported in the northern part of New York and the New England States, frost in Tennessee and Alabama, and telegraphic communication was interrupted for five hours on the European continent by a great snow storm.

THE New York Sun breathes out sentiments when it says that the democratic congress must abolish the internal revenue abomination. The tariff must be revised, with just consideration of all interests affected by its operation. No more money must be collected than can be properly expended, and taxation in every form must be adjusted to distribute the burdens equally. Class legislation must be stopped. Sinecures must be repealed. The lobby must be starved out.

Holiday Edition.

During the week preceding Christmas the DAILY BULLETIN will be enlarged to a five column paper and an edition of one thousand copies printed and circulated each day in this city, Chester, Aberdeen and in the other towns adjacent to Maysville. We shall thus be enabled to offer the business men of the city who wish to advertise their holiday goods, the best and at the same time the cheapest medium for doing so. Our patrons may rely upon having their favors printed in six thousand papers during the week, all of which will be circulated where they will be of the most benefit to advertisers. Call and ascertain our rates. Contracts should be made immediately as our space will be limited.

COUNTY POINTS.

GERMANTOWN.

A large and fashionable assembly gathered in the Christian Church at this place on Nov. 23, 1882, at 10 o’clock, a. m., to witness the bridal ceremony of Miss Hattie G. Frazee, only daughter of our worthy citizen, Joseph T. Frazee, to Mr. Raleigh K. Hart of Fleming county. The bride is one of Mason county’s most lovely and popular young ladies, true and beautiful in all her relations to society and the church, kind and amiable in disposition, she is immensely beloved.

The groom is a prominent and well known citizen of his county, belonging to one of its most respectable families.

The ceremony was performed by Elder J. Irwin West, in his usual felicitous style. The attendants were Miss Sue E. Worthington and Mr. W. C. Johnson with Judge J. C. Kackley and Mr. Garret Holton as ushers. The ceremonies at the church were over quite a number of invited friends repaired to the residence of the bride’s parents to partake of an elegant repast and view the many valuable and beautiful articles presented to the bride by loving friends. The best wishes of a host of friends follow them to their future home in his native county.

The following is a list of articles presented to Miss Hattie Frazee as bridal gifts:

An elegant gold watch and chain—groom to the bride.

Silver ladle—Miss Fannie Frazee.

Silver ladle—Mr and Mrs J. H. Walton.

Silver individual castor—Mr and Mrs J. S. Asbury.

Silver individual castor—Mr and Mrs A. W. Gordon.

Celluloid comb, brush and mirror—Mrs Maria Gates and sister.

Celluloid comb, brush and mirror—Charlie, Emma and Walter Gordon.

A pencil drawing much admired for its perfect execution (castle of children)—Miss Anna Frazee, of Mayslick.

Hand painted fan—Mrs W. D. Frazee.

Counterpane—Mr and Mrs L. H. Mannen.

Silver butter-dish—Miss Leon Proctor and Miss Emma Gordon.

Set of silver knives and forks—Mrs J. T. Frazee.

Set of silver table spoons—J. T. Frazee.

Silver cake basket—Mr and Mrs W. T. Russell, of Missouri.

Silver cake basket—Mr and Mrs J. Irwin West.

Silver salad dish—Miss Sue Worthington and W. C. Johnson.

Silver spoon holder—Mr and Mrs D. Norris.

Vases and card receiver—Mr and Mrs D. C. Frazee.

Elegant photograph album—Mr and Mrs S. J. Shackelford.

One dozen napkins—J. H. Walton.

MT. OLIVET.

Chancery court adjourned on the 22nd.

Elbridge Kenton received a painful wound in the calf or the leg on the 15th inst., he was assisting one of his hands in splitting a stick of wood when the ax in the hands of the negro flew off the handle and struck Kenton as stated below.

The trouble between J. B. Simonds and the Mt. Olivet, Pinhook and Santa Fe turnpike company have been adjusted by Mr. Simonds giving up the contract. H. L. Wilson and W. A. Morris were the arbitrators selected respectively by the company, and Simonds, two of the company, N. T. Buchner and N. A. Tilton have contracted to complete the first three miles. Simonds paid as long as his money lasted.

A protracted meeting was begun at the M. E. Church, South, last Sunday night by Rev. S. A. Day, considerable interest is being manifested and a genuine, old fashion revival is anticipated.

Thomas B. Donovan and Patrick Crotty, of Flemingsburg, visited the family of J. J. Osborne for a few days this week.

Monday the 20th was county court day, and considerable business was transacted by our merchants. There was a larger crowd in attendance than has been in town for a year.

The town trustees elected on the first Monday in April, have had a quorum at only two meetings since that time. We think, Mt. Olivet will set apart a day on which to return thanks if she should be fortunate enough to find within her corporate limits five men who will do their duty as trustees. Do your duty gentlemen or step down and out.

Alice Oates Opera Company.

Next Wednesday evening the sprightly and spirited Alice Oates will appear in this city, at the Opera House, in Audran’s celebrated comic opera “La Mascotte.” The company is a strong one comprising as it does some of the best talent on the operatic stage. Alice Oates is perhaps unequalled in the rendition of comic opera having developed an extraordinary ability in this comparatively unoccupied field. Mr. James Sturges as king in the Mascotte is said to be unapproachable in his interpretation of this important role in the opera. The support is well selected and very strong in comedy talent. The Portland Press says:

“Alice Oates was a very vivacious and Fanchy Bettina. She threw herself into the character withunction and first gave a reminiscence of Lotta and then one of Amie. She introduced as did the others a great deal of new business that pleased her hearers immensely and in her musical numbers she showed herself an accomplished vocalist.”

At the book stock store of Morrison & Kackley may be seen a portrait of Mr. Gladstone, the English Premier, obtained by Mr. Wm. Willocks during his recent visit to Europe. It is to be presented to the Historical Society.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

SATURDAY EVENING, NOV. 25, 1882.

ROSSER & McCARTHY,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

AN agent for the Auditor
Has lately come to town
Who understands that little law
And means to lay it down.
His weapon is a poker hot,
Severity to lend,
And all untaxed whom it concerns
Will get the red-hot end.

MAYOR January is a candidate for re-election. He has performed his duties most acceptably.

RESERVED seats are going off rapidly for the Oates entertainment next week. The prospects are that the audience will be the largest ever assembled in Washington Opera House.

THE recipes for cooking oysters, furnished to the BULLETIN by Mr. John Wheeler and printed elsewhere, are worth preserving. They are the best that have ever been printed.

PERSONALS.

Points About Here and People Elsewhere.

Miss Lulie D. Brenner, who has been visiting her Aunt Mrs. John Boots, of Madisonville, Ohio, for several months, returned home, Thursday, accompanied by her cousin, Miss Lulie Brenner.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Greenwood, of this city, are visiting at Cincinnati.

Mrs. E. Barr, we regret to say, is no better to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Grant will go to Cincinnati to-morrow, the latter for the purpose of having a surgical operation performed upon her eye. They will be absent for several days.

Religious.

DIVINE services at the M. E. Church, Third street, Sunday morning and evening. Evening subject: The things pertaining to Christ's Kingdom. Text, Matt. 7. 25.

Thanksgiving services will be held next Thursday morning at the Church on Lawrence creek, and at the Methodist Church in Chester, at night by Rev. F. S. Pollitt.

Rev. J. K. Pace will preach at the Baptist Church to-morrow morning and evening. Morning subject: "What it is to be a Christian;" evening subject: "The quiet work of Christ."

The regular services will be held at the Presbyterian Chapel in the Fifth Ward, to-morrow, by Rev. S. B. Alderson, pastor. Morning subject: "The Crucifixion," continued. Evening subject: "Obedience rather than Sacrifice."

The congregations of the South Methodist churches will hold joint services to-morrow. In the morning at the Presbyterian church and in the evening at the south Methodist church. Rev. M. D. Reynolds will preach on both occasions. All are cordially invited to attend.

The Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist and Christian churches will unite in a Thanksgiving service at 11 o'clock a. m. Thanksgiving, November 30th, in the M. E. church on Third street. Rev. J. K. Pace, pastor of the Baptist church, will preach the sermon, the other pastors taking part in the service.

Divine services will be held at the church of the Nativity to-morrow at 11 a. m. and 7:15 p. m. by Rev. W. Dudley Powers, rector. Text for morning sermon may be found in Exodus, xii, 12 and 13. Sunday school at 2:30 in the afternoon. Special services will be read on next Thursday, Thanksgiving day, by the pastor.

BACK TAXES.

The Newly Appointed Auditor's Agent Files Information Against the Railroad and Turnpike companies.

A Large Sum Alleged to be due From These Corporations as Back Taxes.

County attorney Jno. L. Whitaker has been appointed and has qualified as Auditor's agent for Mason county. He received his commission from Auditor Fayette Hewitt a few days ago, and has entered upon the discharge of his duties. His appointment was in accordance with chapter 1312 of the acts of the last legislature entitled Revenue laws.

Section two, of the above mentioned chapter, says:

2. That in addition to other duties imposed by law, it shall be his duty, where any person in this commonwealth, has failed to give in his list, or a proper list of his taxable property, to give information of the same to the county court of the county where such list should have been given and said court shall issue a summons against such person to appear before said court, in ten days after service, and list his property for the year or years he has failed to do so; and if, upon hearing, the court is satisfied of such failure to list and pay taxes, it shall assess and fix the value of same, with interest at ten per cent. per annum and certify same to the auditor, and place it in the hands of the sheriff or collector, who shall collect and account for the same as for other taxes. The court shall also adjudge the costs of the proceeding against the party in default. Provided, that the party may, when notified, list his property, and pay the taxes due, with interest aforesaid, to the agent of the auditor, and save costs.

Acting under the provisions of the above section, Auditor's agent Whittaker Friday filed information against the Kentucky Central Railroad Company, stating that said company had failed to list and pay taxes on their property for the years 1876-77-78 and 79. Said property consists of over eleven miles of road, the value of same being estimated at $20,000 per mile, summons was issued by the county clerk against said company to appear and list said property for taxation. Like proceedings were instituted against the Maysville and Lexington turnpike company to appear and list 13½ miles of turnpike valued at $3,500 per mile for the years 1876-77-78-79-80-81 and 82; against the Maysville and Germantown turnpike company to appear and list 12½ miles of turnpike road valued at $3,500 per mile for the same years; the Maysville and Mt. Sterling turnpike road company 14 miles of road at $4,000 per mile for the same years; the Helena turnpike road company 5 miles of road for $5,000 per mile for same years; the Maysville and Orangeburg turnpike road company 12 miles of road at $3,000 per mile for same years, and the Lewis and Mason turnpike road company 15 miles of road at $2,500 per mile.

The said agents are also authorized to investigate the accounts of clerks of the various courts, judges of the quarterly courts, trustees of the jury fund, the assessors, and all other officers; also the dockets of justices of the peace, police judges, judges of city courts of the various counties, towns, and cities of this commonwealth, and ascertain and report to the auditor what sums of money, if any, have been or should have been received by such officers, belonging to the state, and which have not been satisfactorily accounted for and paid over by them as required by law, or what overcharges have been made in any way, by any of said public officers against the commonwealth; they are also authorized to institute proper legal proceedings, where they find anything wrong in any of the above matters.

HOW TO COOK OYSTERS.

Prepared for the Daily Bulletin by Mr. John Wheeler.

PANNED OYSTERS.

Take a can, drain them and see that no bits of shells adhere to the oysters; put them into a hot pan containing a tablespoonful of butter, half a level tea spoonful of salt and a very little pepper and cook them over a hot fire until they begin to curl, about five minutes; pour them out on toast and serve hot.

STEWED OYSTERS.

Place the oysters with the liquor in a sauce pan, and heat them slowly in it; when just beginning to simmer, lift out the oysters and add a pint of fresh milk, season with salt and pepper and when it boils stir in two tablespoonfuls of butter; stir until thoroughly blended, then put in the oysters and let them remain by the side of the fire until very hot. Serve with Langdon's crackers.

FRIED OYSTERS.

Strain off the liquor, dip them in beaten eggs, then roll in cracker dust; heat a frying pan, put in butter or nice sweet lard, lay in the oysters and fry them until of a nice brown color.

BROILED OYSTERS.

Wipe them dry, sprinkle salt and pepper upon them, and boil them upon a small gridiron. Dredge the oysters with flour if you wish to have them brown. Broil quickly and dish hot putting a tiny piece of bread on each oyster.

SCALLOPED OYSTERS.

Put a layer of fine bread crumbs or crushed crackers in a buttered pudding dish; next a layer of oysters, a small lump of butter, pepper, salt and a little of the oyster juice; then put another layer of crumbs and oysters until the dish is full, having a layer of crumbs at the top; bake until brown. Serve hot.

OYSTER FRITTERS.

Drain the liquor from them and to a cupful of this add the same quantity of milk, three eggs, a little salt, and flour enough for a thin batter; chop the oysters and stir into the batter; have ready in the frying pan a few spoonfuls of lard or butter; heat very hot, and drop the oyster batter in by the spoonful. Take from the pan as soon as done, and send to the table very hot.

DELMONICO'S OYSTER STEW.

Take one quart liquid oysters, put the liquor (a teacupful for three,) in a stew-pan and add half as much more water, salt, a good bit of pepper, a teaspoonful of rolled crackers for each; put on the stove and let it boil; have your oysters ready in a bowl; the moment the liquor begins to boil, pour in your oysters, say ten or more for each person. You watch carefully and as soon as it begins to boil, take out your watch, count just thirty seconds and take your oysters from the stove. You will have your dish ready with one and a half table spoons of cold milk for each person. Pour your stew on the milk and serve immediately.

OYSTER PIE.

Line a deep pie plate with pie crust, fill with dry pieces of bread, cover with puff paste and bake until a light brown; have the oysters stewed by the time the crust is done, remove the upper crust and pieces of bread; put in the oysters, season them with salt, pepper and butter, then cover with the upper crust.

OYSTER OMELET.

Chop the oysters finely; beat the yolks and whites of six eggs separately; stir together a cup of milk and the yolks; season with salt and pepper; add the chopped oysters and a tablespoonful of melted butter; then whip in the whites lightly; put three tablespoonfuls of butter in a frying pan; when hot put the mixture into the pan; when brown on the under side it is sufficiently cooked. When you take them up lay a hot dish on them, then turn the pan upside down.

OYSTER PATTIES.

Have ready some small tins lined with puff paste; set the oysters with enough liquor to cover them, upon the stove; let them come to a boil; skim well and stir in two tablespoonfuls of butter, pepper and a pinch of salt, and two or three spoonfuls of milk; put two or three oysters in each, according to the size of the plates; cover with paste, and bake in a quick oven, twenty minutes.

OYSTER SAUSAGES.

Chop the oysters; mix with equal quantity of fine bread crumbs, and beef suet chopped very fine; add half a spoonful of salt and pepper and one of mace, a very little nutmeg; moisten all with two unbeaten eggs; flour the hands well and work together; put in a cool place for two or three hours, then mould in cakes and fry in butter until brown.

The Best.

There are other good cooking stoves and A. J. Egnew & Co., keeps them in stock, but if there are two stoves in existence which lay just claims to superiority in many respects over all others they are the OMAHA AND HOT BLAST CHARTER. We have not the space here to point out their many merits but call at our establishment on Market street and we will take great pleasure in doing so there, whether you wish to buy the stove or not. We consider it the best stove in the market. oct30d&w1m. A. J. EGNEW, & Co.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

The electric light will affect the colors of cloths, as well as paintings, in the same way but not so quickly as sunlight.—N. Y. Herald.

The cottonwood is abundant in Kansas, where it grows rapidly. Under the Forestry law of that State about 6,000 acres have been planted in black walnut.—Denver Tribune.

The sorrowful tree—so named because it flourishes only at night—grows upon the Island of Goa, near Bombay. The flowers, which have a fragrant odor, appear soon after sunset the year round, and close up or fall off as the sun rises.

Black birch, which is coming in favor as a substitute for black walnut, is a close-grained and handsome wood. It can readily be stained to resemble walnut, is just as easy to work, and is suitable for many of the purposes to which black walnut is applied.—N. Y. Post.

A report recently issued by the American Silk Association shows that it was the best year American factories have ever had, and also that it was the largest year of importation ever seen in the trade. It is estimated that the American people spent over $105,000,000 for silks in the fiscal year ending July 1, one-third of this large sum going to our native manufacturers.—Chicago Journal.

One of the latest notions is to have a light on the forehead of the horse. We are assured that it gives perfect safety against accident when driving after dark. No fire, no liquids, no lamp, yet a never-failing bright signal light at a great distance. It is made of metal and covered with a combination of luminous compounds; is easily attached and detached; is made in different designs, and therefore, very attractive if it should be carried in daytime.—Court Journal.

Preparing Land for a Garden.

A large proportion of farmers declare that vegetable gardens are unprofitable, that they require a large amount of work, and make a poor return for it. The truth is many excellent farmers are very poor gardeners. They are experts in raising corn, potatoes and small grains, but they do not understand how to produce the ordinary garden vegetables. They think the land for a garden requires no special preparation, and no special manuring. It does require both. The spot selected for a garden should be well drained, and it is well to have it slope toward the south or southeast. The soil should be free from weeds, and the seeds that will produce them. Land that has long been in cultivated crops is not in a condition for a garden unless it is very highly manured. Even then it is likely to be objectionable as it is likely to be weedy. In many respects it is better to break a piece of sod for a garden the summer before it is planted. The plowing should be well done and sufficiently early to insure the rotting of the sod. If the spot is some distance from the farm buildings it will not be likely to be visited by fowls and require no fence to protect it. A garden spot should be liberally manured, and the materials used for fertilizing should be well rotted. It is best to apply the manure the fall before the ground is planted, so it can be incorporated with the soil. If the manure is spread on inverted sod it will help rot it, while the seeds it contains will germinate, and the plants they produce can be killed with a harrow or other implement. Land which requires as much labor as a garden should be very rich. It should receive as much as fifty wagon-loads of stable manure to the acre in order to be as productive as most market gardens in the vicinity of large cities are.—Chicago Times.

It is reported that English detectives have proved useless in Ireland, on account of their accent. We should think so. It rather gives a fellow away, when he walks into a Land League meeting in a damp cave and asks: "Beg pawd'n, y' know, but 'ave ye seen such a thing as a suspect about ere, y' know?"—Chicago Times.
